Ranking Minority Member
Committee on Environment and Public Works
United States Senate

Subject: Superfund Program: Breakdown of Appropriations Data

Dear Senator Jeffords:

On February 18, 2004, we issued a report updating the appropriations and expenditure data for the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Superfund program that we included in our July 2003 report on the status of the program.¹ To supplement this information, you requested that we provide a breakdown of the appropriations data, showing the amounts for the Superfund program, amounts designated for the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) and the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS), and the Brownfields program. Superfund program operations are funded by appropriations from the general revenue fund and the Superfund trust fund. Historically, a tax on crude oil and certain chemicals and an environmental tax on corporations were the primary sources of revenues for the trust fund; however, the authority for these taxes expired in 1995. The trust fund continues to receive revenues in the form of cost recoveries, interest on the fund balance, fines and penalties, and general revenue fund appropriations that supplement the trust fund balance.

In preparing this report, we relied primarily on our prior work on EPA's Superfund program, updated where appropriate through discussions with EPA officials in the Office of the Chief Financial Officer and the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response. We determined that the appropriations and expenditure data used were sufficiently reliable through our interviews with EPA officials. We conducted our work from February through April 2004 in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards.

As enclosure I shows, total Superfund program appropriations decreased from fiscal year 1993 to fiscal year 2004, in constant 2003 dollars, from $1,884 million to ¹U.S. General Accounting Office, Superfund Program: Updated Appropriation and Expenditure Data, GAO-04-475R (Washington, D.C.: Feb. 18, 2004) and Superfund Program: Current Status and Future Fiscal Challenges, GAO-03-850 (Washington, D.C.: July 31, 2003).

$1,242 million.² Since fiscal year 2000, the Superfund program has increasingly relied on revenue from general revenue fund appropriations. In fiscal year 2004, the appropriation from the general fund was the only source of funds for the program. Enclosure II provides a breakdown of the appropriations for the Superfund program, including amounts designated for ATSDR, NIEHS, and the Brownfields program. The enclosure shows that the net Superfund program appropriations—excluding the amounts for ATSDR, NIEHS, and the Brownfields program—decreased from $1,757 million to $1,242 million, in constant 2003 dollars, from fiscal year 1993 to fiscal year 2004.

We provided EPA with a draft of this report for review and comment. EPA generally agreed with the information in the report and provided several technical comments, which we incorporated as appropriate.

As agreed with your office, unless you publicly announce the contents of this report earlier, we plan no further distribution of it until 5 days from the report date. At that time, we will send copies to the appropriate congressional committees; the Administrator, EPA; and other interested parties. We will also make copies available to others upon request. In addition, the report will be available at no charge on the GAO Web site at <http://www.gao.gov>.

If you or your staff have any questions, please call me at (202) 512-3841. Key contributors to this report were Ellen Crocker, Tim Guinane, Jerry Laudermilk, Nico Sloss, and Tatiana Winger.

Sincerely yours,

Note: Through fiscal year 2000, the Superfund program appropriations included funds for the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) and the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS); through fiscal year 2002, the appropriations included funds for the Brownfields program.

^aFor the purposes of this analysis, we excluded a $40 million emergency supplemental appropriation from the fiscal year 2002 Superfund program appropriations because it was designated specifically for homeland security purposes.

^aFor the purposes of this analysis, we excluded a $40 million emergency supplemental appropriation from the fiscal year 2002 Superfund program appropriations because it was designated specifically for homeland security purposes.

^bBeginning in fiscal year 2001, appropriations for ATSDR and NIEHS were no longer included in the Superfund program appropriations.

^cFor fiscal years 1993 through 1996, the amount designated for the Brownfields program represents budget authority as estimated by EPA, rather than appropriations to the program.

^dThe amount designated for the Brownfields program in fiscal year 1993 was $0.15 million in current year dollars ($0.18 million in constant 2003 dollars).

^eBeginning in fiscal year 2003, appropriations for the Brownfields program were no longer included in the Superfund program appropriations.

^fWe converted the annual appropriations to constant 2003 dollars using the Gross Domestic Product (Chained) Price Index.

GAO's Mission

The General Accounting Office, the audit, evaluation and investigative arm of Congress, exists to support Congress in meeting its constitutional responsibilities and to help improve the performance and accountability of the federal government for the American people. GAO examines the use of public funds; evaluates federal programs and policies; and provides analyses, recommendations, and other assistance to help Congress make informed oversight, policy, and funding decisions. GAO's commitment to good government is reflected in its core values of accountability, integrity, and reliability.

Obtaining Copies of GAO Reports and Testimony

The fastest and easiest way to obtain copies of GAO documents at no cost is through the Internet. GAO's Web site (www.gao.gov) contains abstracts and full-text files of current reports and testimony and an expanding archive of older products. The Web site features a search engine to help you locate documents using key words and phrases. You can print these documents in their entirety, including charts and other graphics.

Each day, GAO issues a list of newly released reports, testimony, and correspondence. GAO posts this list, known as "Today's Reports," on its Web site daily. The list contains links to the full-text document files. To have GAO e-mail this list to you every afternoon, go to www.gao.gov and select "Subscribe to e-mail alerts" under the "Order GAO Products" heading.

Order by Mail or Phone

The first copy of each printed report is free. Additional copies are $2 each. A check or money order should be made out to the Superintendent of Documents. GAO also accepts VISA and Mastercard. Orders for 100 or more copies mailed to a single address are discounted 25 percent. Orders should be sent to:
