Subject: Ex-Im Bank: The U.S. Export-Import Bank’s Financing of Dual-Use Exports

Since October 1994, the U.S. Export-Import Bank (Ex-Im) has had statutory authority to provide loans, guarantees, and insurance to help finance U.S. exports of dual-use (military and civilian) defense articles and services, provided that it determines these items are nonlethal and meant primarily for civilian use. These dual-use exports include such items as vehicles that are used by the military for civilian or humanitarian purposes. The legislation also requires us to report annually on the end uses of the dual-use exports financed by Ex-Im during the second preceding fiscal year—which, for the purposes of this letter, corresponds to 2005. Since we last issued a letter in 2001 reporting on Ex-Im financed dual-use exports, the enclosure to this letter provides detailed information regarding the dual-use exports financed during fiscal years 2002 through 2004.

Ex-Im Did Not Finance Dual-Use Exports in 2005

In fiscal year 2005, Ex-Im did not finance any dual-use export projects. According to Ex-Im officials, dual-use items were last financed in 2002, and Ex-Im has not considered any requests for dual-use financing since then. The officials attributed the program’s decline to a shift in Ex-Im’s portfolio from transactions with governments to private sector transactions.

Agency Comments

We provided a copy of the draft version of this letter to Ex-Im’s Engineering and Environment Division, which is responsible for monitoring end user compliance with dual-use requirements. The agency had no comments.

1The Export-Import Bank Reauthorization Act of 2006 (P.L. 109-438, December 20, 2006) extended through September 1, 2011, provisions in 1994 legislation (P.L. 103-428, October 31, 1994) authorizing Ex-Im to finance certain dual-use exports. Under this legislation, Ex-Im can use up to 10 percent of its total annual loan, guarantee, and insurance authority to support the sale of these dual-use exports.

2According to Ex-Im officials, a dual-use export is eligible for financing if convincing evidence exists that the export is nonlethal in nature, the export will be used mainly for civilian activities, and the buyer or end user provides certification to that effect.

Scope and Methodology

To determine the extent of financing and end uses of the dual-use exports financed from fiscal years 2002 to the present, we reviewed Ex-Im documents and interviewed Ex-Im officials who monitor end user compliance with dual-use requirements, including the Vice President of the Engineering and Environment Division.

We conducted our work from July 2007 through September 2007 in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards.

We are sending copies of this report to interested congressional committees. We will also send copies to the President and Chairman of Ex-Im, the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of State. We will also make copies available to others upon request. In addition, this report will be available at no charge on the GAO Web site at http://www.gao.gov.

Dual-Use Exports Financed by Ex-Im for Fiscal Years 2002-2004

In fiscal year 2002, Ex-Im financed four dual-use export projects for a total of $24.6 million and processed an additional project that expired before it was financed. Ex-Im officials provided us with documentation for each of the 2002 projects showing that they monitored them to ensure their end uses were for civilian and humanitarian purposes. In fiscal years 2003 and 2004, Ex-Im did not finance any dual-use projects. (See table 1.)

GAO’s Mission

The Government Accountability Office, the audit, evaluation, and investigative arm of Congress, exists to support Congress in meeting its constitutional responsibilities and to help improve the performance and accountability of the federal government for the American people. GAO examines the use of public funds; evaluates federal programs and policies; and provides analyses, recommendations, and other assistance to help Congress make informed oversight, policy, and funding decisions. GAO’s commitment to good government is reflected in its core values of accountability, integrity, and reliability.

Obtaining Copies of GAO Reports and Testimony

The fastest and easiest way to obtain copies of GAO documents at no cost is through GAO’s Web site (www.gao.gov). Each weekday, GAO posts newly released reports, testimony, and correspondence on its Web site. To have GAO e-mail you a list of newly posted products every afternoon, go to www.gao.gov and select “E-mail Updates.”

Order by Mail or Phone

The first copy of each printed report is free. Additional copies are $2 each. A check or money order should be made out to the Superintendent of Documents. GAO also accepts VISA and Mastercard. Orders for 100 or more copies mailed to a single address are discounted 25 percent. Orders should be sent to:
