U.S. POSTAL SERVICE

Key Elements of Comprehensive Postal Reform

What GAO Found

GAO believes that comprehensive postal reform is urgently needed. The Service achieved notable success in fiscal year 2003, but this respite is likely to be short-lived. The outlook is for continuing declines in the core business of First-Class Mail, while some key costs are rising and productivity gains are likely to slow.

Key postal reform issues that need to be addressed are:

- The Service’s Mission and Role as a Self-Financing Federal Entity
- Governance, Transparency, and Accountability Mechanisms
- Flexibilities and Independent Oversight
- Human Capital Reforms, Including Pension, Benefit, and Escrow Issues

Why GAO Did This Study

Both the Presidential Commission on the U.S. Postal Service and GAO’s past work have reported that universal postal service is at risk and that reform is needed to minimize the risk of a significant taxpayer bailout or dramatic postal rate increases.

GAO has testified that Congress should enact comprehensive postal reform legislation that would clarify the Postal Service’s (the Service) mission and role; enhance governance, transparency, and accountability; improve regulation of postal rates and oversight; help to ensure the rationalization of the Service’s infrastructure and workforce; and make needed human capital reforms.

The administration has also supported postal reform, outlining guiding principles intended to ensure that the Service: implements best practices with a governing body equipped to meet its responsibilities; enhances transparency of timely and accurate data on postal costs and performance; provides greater flexibility for the Service to meet its customer obligations; ensures accountability through appropriate independent oversight; and keeps the Service financially self-sufficient, covering all of its obligations. GAO was asked to discuss comprehensive postal reform in light of these principles.

This testimony is largely based on prior GAO reports and testimonies.
