To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives

This report transmits our opinion on the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation's financial statements for the year ended September 30, 1983. We made our examination pursuant to the provisions of 31 U.S.C. 9105 and in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards.

The Corporation is responsible for the preparation and implementation of a development plan for certain areas adjacent to Pennsylvania Avenue between the Capitol and the White House. To ensure that the plan be carried out, Congress vested the Corporation with the power of eminent domain and authority to regulate both private and public development, to undertake construction activities, and to enter into a wide variety of real estate and other commercial transactions.

The Corporation included unaudited financial statements in its 1983 annual report which differ from the financial statements presented in this report. The principal difference between the two is that in its annual report the Corporation recognized appropriations as revenue when received instead of recognizing them as revenue only as they were expended. As a result, net income in the Corporation's annual report is overstated to the extent that appropriations are not expended, or by about $8 million.

We are sending copies of this report to the Director, Office of Management and Budget, and to the Board of Directors and the Director, Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly the financial position of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation as of September 30, 1983, and the results of its operations and the changes in its financial position for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. The financial statements of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation for the year ended September 30, 1982, were not audited by us and, accordingly, we do not express an opinion on them.

REPORT ON INTERNAL ACCOUNTING CONTROLS

As part of our examination of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation's financial statements for the year ended September 30, 1983, we made a study and evaluation of the system of internal accounting control to the extent we considered necessary to evaluate the system as required by generally accepted government auditing standards. For the purpose of this report, we have classified the significant internal accounting controls in the following categories:

- expenditure cycle,
- financial reporting cycle,
- revenue cycle, and
- treasury cycle.

Our study included all of the control categories listed above except that we did not evaluate the accounting controls over the treasury cycle and financial reporting cycle because it was more efficient to expand substantive audit tests. The purpose of our study and evaluation was to determine the nature, timing, and extent of the auditing procedures necessary for expressing an opinion on the Corporation's financial statements. Our study and evaluation was more limited than would be necessary to express an opinion on the system of internal accounting control taken as a whole or on any of the categories of controls identified above.

The management of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation is responsible for establishing and maintaining a system of internal accounting control. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of control procedures. The objectives of a system are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Because of inherent limitations in any system of internal accounting control, errors or irregularities may nevertheless occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of the system to future periods is subject to the risk that procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the degree of compliance with the procedures may deteriorate.

Our study and evaluation was made for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph and would not necessarily disclose all material weaknesses in the system. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the system of internal accounting control of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation taken as a whole or on any of the categories of controls identified in the first paragraph. However, our study and evaluation disclosed no condition that we believed to be a material weakness.

REPORT ON COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS AND REGULATIONS

We have examined the financial statements of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation for the year ended September 30, 1983. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures, including tests of compliance with laws and regulations, as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation complied with the terms and provisions of laws and regulations for the transactions tested that could have materially affected the Corporation's financial statements.

Nothing came to our attention in connection with our examination that caused us to believe that the corporation was not in compliance with the terms and provisions of laws and regulations for those transactions not tested.

Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation
Notes to Financial Statements
As of September 30, 1983 and September 30, 1982

(1) Organization

The Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation (PADC), a wholly owned Government Corporation, was created by the Congress under the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation Act of 1972. The Act provided for the preparation and implementation of a development plan for certain areas adjacent to Pennsylvania Avenue between the Capitol and the White House.

Construction and development is a joint venture between the Federal Government and private industry. The Corporation is financing a program of extensive public improvements and expanded pedestrian amenities. To facilitate private development, the Corporation buys and assembles properties in the area and leases or sells them back to private investors for development according to the Pennsylvania Avenue Plan. A private investor may also purchase land directly from a land owner and develop it in accordance with the Plan.

Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation has four separate funds for its operations.

- The Salaries and Expense Fund uses an annual appropriation to pay salaries and the administrative expenses of the Corporation.
- The Land Acquisition and Development Fund is a revolving fund that provides the Corporation with resources with which to assist prospective developers in their efforts to assemble real estate for development projects consistent with the development plan. The Corporation may borrow money from the U.S. Treasury. Such borrowings are repaid to the Treasury with revenues from selling or leasing of acquired property to private developers.
- The Public Development Fund uses multi-year appropriations to pay for public development activities and projects. These public service costs include: public improvements, historic preservation, and relocation assistance to displaced tenants of buildings purchased by the Corporation.
- The Gifts and Donations Fund accounts for contributions from individuals, corporations, and private organizations to the Corporation and the related disbursements.

(2) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Principles of Consolidation - The consolidated financial statements include all funds of Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation. Inter-fund and inter-operational transactions and balances have been eliminated.

Basis of Accounting - Assets, liabilities, revenue and expenses are recognized on the accrual basis of accounting following generally accepted accounting principles.

Accounting for Interest Costs - Interest charges incurred on borrowings from the U.S. Treasury are considered a cost of acquiring land and are, therefore, capitalized under the asset account "land". When a property achieves its final development and is substantially ready for sale, the interest cost is considered an operating expense of the accounting period.

Land - The Land Account includes charges for direct land purchase costs, appraisals, feasibility studies, title searches, insurance, fees, surveys, property owner reimbursements and demolition of buildings. The Corporation considers buildings acquired through land purchases to have no economic value as the buildings will be demolished and, therefore, the buildings are not recorded as a separate asset.

Rent Deferral - The Corporation allows developers to defer 50% of current rent charges on leased land during construction and the first year of operation following the construction period upon compliance with the Affirmative Action policies adopted by the Corporation's Board of Directors.

Pensions - The Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation employees are covered by the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund. Consequently, PADC has the responsibility for withholding 7 percent of each employee's salary and for contributing 7 percent to the plan. PADC's matching amounts were $86,702.64 and $94,947.64 in 1983 and 1982, respectively.
