2. Please note the statutory limitations, if any, applicable to each Department, Bureau or Agency.

In the absence of statutory authority to do otherwise, agencies are required to deposit donated funds into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 484.

Our Office has held that in the absence of specific legislation there is no authority for an official of the Government to accept on behalf of the United States, voluntary donations or contributions of cash to augment appropriations made by the Congress for particular purposes (36 Comp. Gen. 269). //

No officer or employee of the United States shall accept voluntary services for the United States or employ personal services in excess of that authorized by law, except in cases of emergency involving the safety of human life or the protection of property (31 U.S.C. 665(b)). //

B-149711

Whenever any direct obligation of the United States, bearing interest and sold on a discount basis, is donated to the United States or otherwise becomes the property of the United States, the Treasurer of the United States shall effect redemption thereof, depositing the gift or the balance thereof, after gift or inheritance taxes, into miscellaneous receipts or as otherwise authorized by law (31 U.S.C. 757e).

Our Office held that the acceptance by a Federal agency of a donation of equipment for use by the Government is not specifically prohibited by law (22 Comp. Gen. 153).

The Attorney General has rendered a decision holding that no legislation is necessary to enable the United States to take and hold land by voluntary gift, devise, or grant (21 Op. Atty. Gen. 455).

Specific statutory restrictions on the acceptance or use of authorized donated funds, services, and property, have been noted as follows.

Gifts may not be accepted by the Secretary of State if conditioned upon any expenditure not to be met therefrom, or from the income thereof, unless such expenditure has been approved by the Congress (22 U.S.C. 809(a), supp. IV). Comparable restrictions are prescribed for the Franklin Roosevelt Fund administered by the Department of the Army, (9 U.S.C. 204-228), the National Park Fund Trust Board (16 U.S.C. 19-19c), the Public Health Service (42 U.S.C. 219), and Saint Elizabeths Hospital (42 U.S.C. 181-184).

The National Commission on Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Cooperation is not authorized to receive gifts in excess of $200,000 in any one year (22 U.S.C. 287q, supp. IV).

Funds donated to the National Science Foundation must be unrestricted except that donations in connection with weather investigations may be limited to certain projects or areas (42 U.S.C. 1870, 1872a).

3. How are donated funds accounted for?

This Office has held that private donations constitute trust funds to be disbursed in accordance with the trust, B-142538, February 6, 1961.

Our survey disclosed that donated funds are generally deposited in the Treasury in conformity with Government-wide accounting procedures applicable to trust funds. Such procedures require that trust fund accounts be maintained for all receipts which are held in a fiduciary capacity by the Government for use in carrying out specific purposes.

and programs in accordance with an agreement or statute. See 7 GAO 1020.65 and 7 GAO 2000, appendix A-3.<sup>17</sup> We have been informed by the civil agencies surveyed that conditional gifts, if accepted, are expended in accordance with the terms of the agreement.

Further information on accounting for donated funds is summarized below:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Officials of the Department advised us that in the absence of authority for the Department to accept donations, such funds would be forwarded to the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

Certain programs and financing aspects of trust funds are summarized annually in the Budget of the United States. See, for example, pages 931 and 932 of the Appendix to the Budget for fiscal year 1968. The budget document does not, however, include donations of real or personal properties and donations to nonappropriated funds such as athletic facility funds.

Department of the Army

Corps of Engineers (Civil Functions)

The Corps of Engineers has established accounting procedures whereby a general ledger account "Contributions in aid of Construction", which is supported by cost accounts, is used to record donations from States, municipalities, and others.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Funds donated to the United States Commission - New York World's Fair, and the Bureau of International Commerce are deposited into the Treasury as trust funds and are accounted for by the Office of the Secretary. Donations received by the Maritime Administration and the National Bureau of Standards are deposited in the Treasury as trust funds and accounts therefor are maintained by these agencies. No donations were reported for the Bureau of Public Roads and the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

B-149711

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

Donated funds are accounted for and administered by each administration, office, or service. Funds donated to the Welfare Administration are deposited in a suspense account pending establishment of a gift trust fund account in the Treasury; donations to the Public Health Service are deposited to conditional or unconditional trust fund accounts. The Department's remaining agencies, administrations, and services have not received donated funds.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Agencies of the Department of the Interior maintain detailed records for all donations and deposit the funds received in trust fund accounts in the Treasury. The Bureau of Mines had no donated funds, and we noted only one donation to the Geological Survey.

The Bureau of Reclamation maintains a contributions account for each project showing the amount contributed by each donor, the purpose of the contribution, and the conditions attached. An account for donations has been established by the Bonneville Power Administration; however, no donations have been received.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Funds donated to the Department of State are deposited in individual trust fund accounts and records thereof maintained by the Departments. The United States Information Agency receives, deposits, and maintains accounts for all donated funds.

The Agency for International Development has not received any donations.

The Peace Corps received donations totaling approximately $66,000 between July 1, 1961, and June 30, 1963, for which a trust fund was established and accounts are maintained therefor.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

The Bureau of Accounts maintains accounts and subsidiary records for gifts and donations received by all bureaus and offices of the Treasury Department except for the United States Coast Guard and the Internal Revenue Service. The acceptance, administration, and expenditure of gifts or donations for the Coast Guard has been delegated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Commandant. The Coast Guard has established accounts and records for this purpose. The Internal Revenue Service accounts for and deposits into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury gifts or donations it receives when such gifts or donations are without information as to their intent, or certain information that they were prompted by avoidance of internal revenue taxes. Other gifts or donations made to the Internal Revenue Service are processed through the Bureau of Accounts.

DEPARTMENT AGENCIES

Atomic Energy Commission

The Treasury Department deposits all moneys it receives as gifts for the Commission in a special account and transfers the funds from the special account to the appropriate Commission appropriation account. Records of such transfers are maintained at the Commission's Central Accounts Branch, Division of Finance, which records such transfers as appropriation reimbursements.

Civil Service Commission

Commission officials advise us that only two gifts totaling $137 have been received in the last 15 years and that donated funds are accounted for as other income.

Veterans Administration

All donations accepted under 38 U.S.C. 5101 are accounted for through the General Post Fund, National Home, a trust fund established in the Treasury. Funds from certain sources other than donations or gifts are credited to the fund. The fund's income and expenditures for fiscal year 1962 were about $4.5 million and $3.9 million, respectively; its assets totaled about $7 million at June 30, 1962. Most gifts and donations are received at the various hospitals or stations. Although information is not readily available as to the number of gifts or donations received, we understand that thousands are received each year. Funds earmarked by the donor for specific use generally are received and disbursed by individual establishments. Funds for general use are allocated by the Central Office to individual establishments for local expenditure.

4. What about conditions or limitations as to use attached by the donor?

B-149711

The civil agencies authorized to accept conditional donations have indicated that such donations, if accepted, are administered so as to carry out the intent of the donor. A number of agencies require the contributor to designate the use to be made of donated funds.

Additional information considered pertinent to the inquiry is set forth below.

The National Bureau of Standards is authorized to accept and utilize gifts and bequests of real or personal property for its authorized work (15 U.S.C. 270a). The Bureau, in its Administrative Manual, requires that the gift or bequest be free from restrictions, limitation, or control by the donor. A gift may be made, however, for a particular investigation, development, or line of research, provided that the work to be performed is of a type which falls within the authorized functions of the Bureau. The Bureau advised us, however, that work would not be initiated in any requested area solely because of a gift. The results of any Bureau work financed by donations are made available to the general public.

5. Is information concerning receipt or use of donated funds or property now available to Congress or the GAO? On what basis?

Our survey indicated that the agencies reviewed do not submit detailed reports to the Congress on donated funds itemizing with particularity and describing in detail the source, value, purpose, and use of each donation of money, property, personal services, or facilities received. Certain departments and agencies have indicated that some information on donations is included in their annual reports. For example, the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the State of the Finances contains brief comments on the amount of donations and gifts received and used. We noted also that some information concerning donations can be abstracted from the Combined Statement of Receipts, Expenditures, and Balances published annually by the United States Treasury. Quarterly reports (S.J. 133) on certain gift funds are also submitted to the House Committee on Appropriations. Several agencies summarize the receipt and application of donated funds in annual budget estimates and justifications submitted to the Congress. Despite the fact that periodic reports detailing donations of funds or property are not submitted to the Congress, many of the agencies indicated that such information is available and would be supplied if requested by the Congress or its individual Members.

The General Accounting Office has not encountered any difficulty in obtaining access to any information in possession of Federal agencies pertaining to the donation of funds or property under its existing statutory audit authority.

6. If possible, submit suggested drafts of legislation which might be desirable in this area.

As the contemplated legislation involves various facets, including those of Congressional policy, we are not in a position to suggest drafts of desirable legislation in the area under consideration.

We hope the information furnished will prove of assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Joseph Campbell

of the United States
