DECISION

Arcwel Corporation (Arcwel) protests the award of a contract pursuant to solicitation No. N62791-86-B-0185, issued by the Navy for the overhaul of the USS Ranger. Arcwel explains that it was found nonresponsible based upon its financial ability to successfully complete the contract and contends that the award was made to Continental Maritime of San Diego, Inc. (Continental), prior to a final determination by the Small Business Administration (SBA) on the Certificate of Competency (COC) requested by the Navy and Arcwel. Arcwel also protests that Continental should not have received award as it does not have sufficient financial ability to complete the contract.

We dismiss the protest.

The Navy has supplied documentation which shows that SBA declined to issue a COC to reverse the Navy's nonresponsibility determination by letter dated September 25, 1986. Award was then made to Continental by the Navy on September 26. Therefore, this protest has no merit.

Moreover, Arcwel's protest of Continental's financial ability concerns Continental's responsibility. Our Office will not review protests of affirmative determinations of responsibility unless the protester shows possible fraud or bad faith on the part of the contracting officials or alleges that the solicitation contains definitive responsibility criteria which have been misapplied. Alan Scott Industries, et al, 63 Comp. Gen. 610 (1984), 84-2 C.P.D. ¶ 349. Arcwel has made no such showing here.

The protest is dismissed.
