How Big is Our Growing Fiscal Burden?

This fiscal burden can be translated and compared as follows:

Total –major fiscal exposures	$50.5 trillion
Total household net worth¹	$53.3 trillion
Burden/Net worth ratio	95 percent
Burden²
Per person	$170,000
Per full-time worker	$400,000
Per household	$440,000
Income
Median household income³	$46,326
Disposable personal income per capita⁴	$31,519

^aAll other spending is net of offsetting interest receipts.

Composition of Spending as a Share of GDP Under Baseline Extended (August 2006)

Source: GAO's August 2006 analysis.

Notes: In addition to the expiration of tax cuts, revenue as a share of GDP increases through 2016 due to (1) real bracket creep, (2) more taxpayers becoming subject to the AMT, and (3) increased revenue from tax-deferred retirement accounts. After 2016, revenue as a share of GDP is held constant.

Current Fiscal Policy Is Unsustainable

- The “Status Quo” is Not an Option

- We face large and growing structural deficits largely due to known demographic trends and rising health care costs.
- GAO’s simulations show that balancing the budget in 2040 could require actions as large as
 - Cutting total federal spending by 60 percent or
 - Raising federal taxes to 2 times today's level

- Faster Economic Growth Can Help, but It Cannot Solve the Problem

- Closing the current long-term fiscal gap based on reasonable assumptions would require real average annual economic growth in the double digit range every year for the next 75 years.
- During the 1990s, the economy grew at an average 3.2 percent per year.
- As a result, we cannot simply grow our way out of this problem. Tough choices will be required.

The Way Forward: A Three-Pronged Approach

1. Improve Financial Reporting, Public Education, and Performance Metrics
2. Strengthen Budget and Legislative Processes and Controls
3. Fundamental Reexamination & Transformation for the 21st Century (i.e., entitlement programs, other spending, and tax policy)

Solutions Require Active Involvement from both the Executive and Legislative Branches

Key National Indicators

- WHAT: A portfolio of economic, social, and environmental outcome-based measures that could be used to help assess the nation's and other governmental jurisdictions' position and progress
- WHO: Many countries and several states, regions, and localities have already undertaken related initiatives (e.g., Australia, New Zealand, Canada, United Kingdom, Oregon, Silicon Valley (California) and Boston).
- WHY: Development of such a portfolio of indicators could have a number of possible benefits, including
 - Serving as a framework for related strategic planning efforts
 - Enhancing performance and accountability reporting
 - Informing public policy decisions, including much needed baseline reviews of existing government policies, programs, functions, and activities
 - Facilitating public education and debate as well as an informed electorate
- WAY FORWARD: Consortium of key players housed by the National Academies domestically and related efforts by the OECD and others internationally.

Key National Indicators: Where the United States Ranks

The United States may be the only superpower, but compared to most other OECD countries on selected key economic, social, and environmental indicators, on average, the U.S. ranks

Moving the Debate Forward

- The Sooner We Get Started, the Better
 - The miracle of compounding is currently working against us
 - Less change would be needed, and there would be more time to make adjustments
 - Our demographic changes will serve to make reform more difficult over time
- Need Public Education, Discussion, and Debate
 - The role of government in the 21st Century
 - Which programs and policies should be changed and how
 - How government should be financed
